

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Sub
A3

To attain the above object, it is organized so that a page is customized by requesting a page to be customized from a user's computer via a proxy server, having the proxy server embed a program for customization in the requested page, displaying the page in which the program is embedded by a browser of a computer, having the program display a control panel for a customizing operation, and customizing a page according to a customizing operation by a user using the control panel. And the data on the customizing operation is stored on the server.